SEAN F. McAVOY, CLERK

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
EASTERN DISTRICT OF WASHINGTON

KYLE W.,¹

Plaintiff,

v.

MARTIN O'MALLEY,
COMMISSIONER OF SOCIAL SECURITY,

Defendant.

No. 1:24-CV-3080-MKD

ORDER AFFIRMING DECISION
OF COMMISSIONER

ECF Nos. 9, 13

Before the Court are the parties' briefs. ECF Nos. 9, 13. D. James Tree represents Plaintiff; Special Assistant United States Attorney Lori Lookliss represents Defendant. The Court, having reviewed the administrative record and the parties' briefing, is fully informed. For the reasons discussed below, the Court affirms the Commissioner's decision.

¹ To protect the privacy of plaintiffs in social security cases, the Court identifies them by only their first names and the initial of their last names. See LCivR 5.2(c).

JURISDICTION

Plaintiff filed applications for benefits on September 14, 2020, alleging disability beginning August 11, 2019. Tr. 306-20. The application was denied initially and upon reconsideration. Tr. 168-73, 172-87. An Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) held a hearing on June 1, 2023, Tr. 68-98, and issued an unfavorable decision on June 30, 2023. Tr. 14-36. The Appeals Council denied review on April 17, 2024. Tr. 1-6. Plaintiff appealed this final decision of the Commissioner on May 30, 2024. ECF No. 1. The Court has jurisdiction over this case pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 405(g).

STANDARD OF REVIEW

A district court's review of a final decision of the Commissioner of Social Security is governed by 42 U.S.C. § 405(g). The scope of review under § 405(g) is limited; the Commissioner's decision will be disturbed "only if it is not supported by substantial evidence or is based on legal error." Hill v. Astrue, 698 F.3d 1153, 1158 (9th Cir. 2012). "Substantial evidence" means "relevant evidence that a reasonable mind might accept as adequate to support a conclusion." Id. at 1159 (quotation and citation omitted). Stated differently, substantial evidence equates to "more than a mere scintilla[,] but less than a preponderance." Id. (quotation and citation omitted). In determining whether the standard has been satisfied, a 1 reviewing court must consider the entire record as a whole rather than searching

2 for supporting evidence in isolation. Id.

3 In reviewing a denial of benefits, a district court may not substitute its 4 judgment for that of the Commissioner. Edlund v. Massanari, 253 F.3d 1152,
5 1156 (9th Cir. 2001). If the evidence in the record “is susceptible to more than one 6 rational interpretation, [the court] must uphold the ALJ’s findings if they are 7 supported by inferences reasonably drawn from the record.” Molina v. Astrue, 674
8 F.3d 1104, 1111 (9th Cir. 2012), superseded on other grounds by 20 C.F.R. § 9 404.1502(a). Further, a district court “may not reverse an ALJ’s decision on 10 account of an error that is harmless.” Id. An error is harmless “where it is 11 inconsequential to the [ALJ’s] ultimate nondisability determination.” Id. at 1115
12 (quotation and citation omitted). The party appealing the ALJ’s decision generally 13 bears the burden of establishing that it was harmed. Shinseki v. Sanders, 556 U.S.
14 396, 409-10 (2009).

15 FIVE-STEP EVALUATION PROCESS

16 A claimant must satisfy two conditions to be considered “disabled” within 17 the meaning of the Social Security Act. First, the claimant must be “unable to 18 engage in any substantial gainful activity by reason of any medically determinable 19 physical or mental impairment which can be expected to result in death or which 20 has lasted or can be expected to last for a continuous period of not less than twelve

1 months.” 42 U.S.C. §§ 423(d)(1)(A), 1382c(a)(3)(A). Second, the claimant’s 2 impairment must be “of such severity that he is not only unable to do his previous 3 work[,] but cannot, considering his age, education, and work experience, engage in 4 any other kind of substantial gainful work which exists in the national economy.”
5 42 U.S.C. §§ 423(d)(2)(A), 1382c(a)(3)(B).

6 The Commissioner has established a five-step sequential analysis to 7 determine whether a claimant satisfies the above criteria. See 20 C.F.R. §§
8 404.1520(a)(4)(i)-(v), 416.920(a)(4)(i)-(v). At step one, the Commissioner
9 considers the claimant’s work activity. 20 C.F.R. §§ 404.1520(a)(4)(i), 10 416.920(a)(4)(i). If the claimant is engaged in “substantial gainful activity,” the 11 Commissioner must find that the claimant is not disabled. 20 C.F.R. §§ 12 404.1520(b), 416.920(b).

13 If the claimant is not engaged in substantial gainful activity, the analysis 14 proceeds to step two. At this step, the Commissioner considers the severity of the 15 claimant’s impairment. 20 C.F.R. §§ 404.1520(a)(4)(ii), 416.920(a)(4)(ii). If the 16 claimant suffers from “any impairment or combination of impairments which 17 significantly limits [his or her] physical or mental ability to do basic work
18 activities,” the analysis proceeds to step three. 20 C.F.R. §§ 404.1520(c), 19 416.920(c). If the claimant’s impairment does not satisfy this severity threshold, 20 however, the Commissioner must find that the claimant is not disabled. Id.

1 At step three, the Commissioner compares the claimant's impairment to 2 severe impairments recognized by the Commissioner to be so severe as to preclude
3 a person from engaging in substantial gainful activity. 20 C.F.R. §§
4 404.1520(a)(4)(iii), 416.920(a)(4)(iii). If the impairment is as severe or more 5 severe than one of the enumerated impairments, the Commissioner must find the 6 claimant disabled and award benefits. 20 C.F.R. §§ 404.1520(d), 416.920(d).

7 If the severity of the claimant's impairment does not meet or exceed the 8 severity of the enumerated impairments, the Commissioner must pause to assess 9 the claimant's "residual functional capacity." Residual functional capacity (RFC),
10 defined generally as the claimant's ability to perform physical and mental work
11 activities on a sustained basis despite his or her limitations, 20 C.F.R. §§ 12 404.1545(a)(1), 416.945(a)(1), is relevant to both the fourth and fifth steps of the 13 analysis.

14 At step four, the Commissioner considers whether, in view of the claimant's 15 RFC, the claimant is capable of performing work that he or she has performed in 16 the past (past relevant work). 20 C.F.R. §§ 404.1520(a)(4)(iv), 416.920(a)(4)(iv).
17 If the claimant is capable of performing past relevant work, the Commissioner
18 must find that the claimant is not disabled. 20 C.F.R. §§ 404.1520(f), 416.920(f).
19 If the claimant is incapable of performing such work, the analysis proceeds to step 20 five.

1 At step five, the Commissioner considers whether, in view of the claimant's
2 RFC, the claimant is capable of performing other work in the national economy.
3 20 C.F.R. §§ 404.1520(a)(4)(v), 416.920(a)(4)(v). In making this determination,
4 the Commissioner must also consider vocational factors such as the claimant's age,
5 education, and past work experience. 20 C.F.R. §§ 404.1520(a)(4)(v), 6 416.920(a)(4)(v). If the claimant is capable of adjusting to other work, the
7 Commissioner must find that the claimant is not disabled. 20 C.F.R. §§
8 404.1520(g)(1), 416.920(g)(1). If the claimant is not capable of adjusting to other 9 work, the analysis concludes with a finding that the claimant is disabled and is 10 therefore entitled to benefits. Id.

11 The claimant bears the burden of proof at steps one through four above.
12 Tackett v. Apfel, 180 F.3d 1094, 1098 (9th Cir. 1999). If the analysis proceeds to 13 step five, the burden shifts to the Commissioner to establish that 1) the claimant is 14 capable of performing other work; and 2) such work "exists in significant numbers 15 in the national economy." 20 C.F.R. §§ 404.1560(c)(2), 416.960(c)(2); Beltran v.
16 Astrue, 700 F.3d 386, 389 (9th Cir. 2012).

17 ALJ'S FINDINGS

18 At step one, the ALJ found Plaintiff had not engaged in substantial gainful 19 activity since August 11, 2019, the alleged onset date. Tr. 20. At step two, the 20

1 ALJ found that Plaintiff had the following severe impairments: depressive disorder
2 and anxiety disorder. Tr. 20.

3 At step three, the ALJ found Plaintiff did not have an impairment or 4 combination of impairments that meets or medically equals the severity of a listed
5 impairment. Tr. 22-24. The ALJ then concluded that Plaintiff had the RFC to 6 perform a full range of work with the following limitations: “He can perform 7 simple routine tasks. He can have occasional contact with the general public. He 8 can work in the same room with coworkers but no coordination of work activity.
9 He can adapt to simple, occasional workplace changes.” Tr. 24.

10 At step four, the ALJ found Plaintiff capable of performing his past relevant 11 work as a material handler, stock clerk, and agricultural produce sorter. Tr. 29.
12 Alternatively, at step five, the ALJ found that, considering Plaintiff’s age,
13 education, work experience, RFC, and testimony from the vocational expert, there
14 were jobs that existed in significant numbers in the national economy that Plaintiff
15 could perform. Tr. 31. Therefore, the ALJ concluded Plaintiff was not under a 16 disability, as defined in the Social Security Act, from the alleged onset date of 17 August 11, 2019, through the date of the decision. Tr. 31.

18 ISSUES

19 Plaintiff seeks judicial review of the Commissioner’s final decision denying 20 him benefits. Plaintiff raises the following issues for review:

1 1. Whether ALJ properly evaluated Plaintiff's testimony; and

2 2. Whether the ALJ failed to sufficiently develop the record.²

3 ECF No. 9 at 2.

4 DISCUSSION

5 A. Plaintiff's Testimony

6 Plaintiff faults the ALJ for failing to rely on reasons that were clear and 7 convincing in discrediting his symptom claims. ECF No. 9 at 5-17. An ALJ
8 engages in a two-step analysis to determine whether to discount a claimant's
9 testimony regarding subjective symptoms. SSR 16-3p, 2016 WL 1119029, at *2.
10 "First, the ALJ must determine whether there is objective medical evidence of an 11 underlying impairment which could reasonably be expected to produce the pain or 12 other symptoms alleged." Molina, 674 F.3d at 1112 (quotation marks omitted).
13 "The claimant is not required to show that [the claimant's] impairment could 14 reasonably be expected to cause the severity of the symptom [the claimant] has 15 alleged; [the claimant] need only show that it could reasonably have caused some 16 degree of the symptom." Vasquez v. Astrue, 572 F.3d 586, 591 (9th Cir. 2009).

17
18 ² Although Plaintiff styles the issue as concerning the evaluation of medical 19 opinion evidence, ECF No. 9 at 2, his argument addresses the ALJ's duty to 20 develop the record, id. at 17-19; ECF No. 14 at 6-7.

1 Second, “[i]f the claimant meets the first test and there is no evidence of 2 malingering, the ALJ can only reject the claimant’s testimony about the severity of 3 the symptoms if [the ALJ] gives ‘specific, clear and convincing reasons’ for the 4 rejection.” Ghanim v. Colvin, 763 F.3d 1154, 1163 (9th Cir. 2014) (citations
5 omitted). General findings are insufficient; rather, the ALJ must identify what 6 symptom claims are being discounted and what evidence undermines these claims.
7 Id. (quoting Lester v. Chater, 81 F.3d 821, 834 (9th Cir. 1995); Thomas v.
8 Barnhart, 278 F.3d 947, 958 (9th Cir. 2002) (requiring the ALJ to sufficiently 9 explain why it discounted claimant’s symptom claims)). “The clear and 10 convincing [evidence] standard is the most demanding required in Social Security 11 cases.” Garrison v. Colvin, 759 F.3d 995, 1015 (9th Cir. 2014) (quoting Moore v.
12 Comm’r of Soc. Sec. Admin., 278 F.3d 920, 924 (9th Cir. 2002)).

13 Factors to be considered in evaluating the intensity, persistence, and limiting 14 effects of a claimant’s symptoms include: 1) daily activities; 2) the location, 15 duration, frequency, and intensity of pain or other symptoms; 3) factors that 16 precipitate and aggravate the symptoms; 4) the type, dosage, effectiveness, and 17 side effects of any medication an individual takes or has taken to alleviate pain or 18 other symptoms; 5) treatment, other than medication, an individual receives or has 19 received for relief of pain or other symptoms; 6) any measures other than treatment 20 an individual uses or has used to relieve pain or other symptoms; and 7) any other

1 factors concerning an individual's functional limitations and restrictions due to 2 pain or other symptoms. SSR 16-3p, 2016 WL 1119029, at *7; 20 C.F.R. §
3 416.929(c). The ALJ is instructed to "consider all of the evidence in an 4 individual's record," to "determine how symptoms limit ability to perform work-
5 related activities." SSR 16-3p, 2016 WL 1119029, at *2.

6 The ALJ found that Plaintiff's medically determinable impairments could 7 reasonably be expected to cause some of the alleged symptoms, but that Plaintiff's 8 statements concerning the intensity, persistence, and limiting effects of his 9 symptoms were not entirely consistent with the evidence. Tr. 25.

10 The ALJ indicated, among other things, Plaintiff testified "he remains 11 unable to work full-time due to difficulty to follow instructions, handle stress, and 12 be around most people or be in the public[.]" Tr. 25.

13 The ALJ offered numerous reasons to discount the Plaintiff's testimony,
14 several of which the Court finds well supported. First, the ALJ discounted
15 Plaintiff's testimony on the ground "any support provided by the medical record 16 for the alleged severity of the impairments is outweighed by the claimant's work as 17 the caregiver for his mother." Tr. 27. "Engaging in daily activities that are 18 incompatible with the severity of symptoms alleged can support an adverse 19 credibility determination." Ghanim, 763 F.3d at 1165 (citations omitted). This 20 ground is supported by substantial evidence. As the record reflects, see Tr. 75-76,

1 80, the ALJ found Plaintiff “initially cared for [his mother] 38 hour per month, but 2 it increased to 77 hours per month. He reported preparing meals for her, doing her
3 laundry and other light chores, and taking her to walks and shopping[.]” Tr. 27.
4 The ALJ reasonably concluded Plaintiff “appears to be able to care for his mother, 5 which can be quite demanding both physically and emotionally, without any 6 particular assistance.” Tr. 27; see Tr. 80-81 (“Q: And so why aren’t you working
7 right now, other than the caregiving that you’re doing? It seems like you enjoy
8 that job. Is that something you think you can do on a fulltime basis? A: Yes. So 9 the caregiving job is more one on one. I do enjoy the caregiving job and I felt that 10 I can do this long-term versus working at a job that’s a regular set schedule with a 11 bunch of, a bunch of people.”). The ALJ did not err by discounting Plaintiff’s
12 testimony on this ground. See Smartt v. Kijakazi, 53 F.4th 489, 499 (9th Cir. 2022)
13 (“The ALJ made a reasonable determination based on specific, clear, and 14 convincing evidence that Smartt’s daily activities were inconsistent with the 15 alleged severity of her limitations.”); Molina, 674 F.3d at 1113 (noting that “[e]ven 16 where those activities suggest some difficulty functioning, they may be grounds for 17 discrediting the claimant’s testimony to the extent that they contradict claims of a 18 totally debilitating impairment.”) (citations omitted); cf. Trevizo v. Berryhill, 871
19 F.3d 664, 676, 682 (9th Cir. 2017) (reversing discounting of claimant’s testimony 20 on similar ground, noting record there, unlike here, contained “almost no

1 information” about regular childcare activities involved, including their extent and 2 frequency, whether claimant cared for the children alone or with the assistance of 3 others, and that the “only childcare responsibilities identified at the hearing were 4 one-off events, such as taking the children to the doctor or attending hearings 5 (often by phone”).

6 Next, the ALJ discounted Plaintiff’s testimony as inconsistent with his 7 improvement with medication and mental health treatment and the nature of 8 Plaintiff’s mental health treatment. Tr. 26. “[E]vidence of medical treatment 9 successfully relieving symptoms can undermine a claim of disability,” Wellington
10 v. Berryhill, 878 F.3d 867, 876 (9th Cir. 2017) (citing 20 C.F.R. §§ 11 404.1520a(c)(1), 416.920a(c)(1)). Further, a “claimant’s failure to assert a good 12 reason for not seeking treatment ... can cast doubt on the sincerity” of the 13 testimony and an ALJ may discount a claimant’s testimony when the “level or 14 frequency of treatment is inconsistent with the level of complaints.” Molina, 674
15 F.3d at 1113-14 (citations omitted). Substantial evidence supports these grounds 16 ground. See, e.g., Tr. 624 (December 17, 2020, treatment note indicating, among 17 other things, depression and anxiety are “much better” and “med[ication] is 18 working so well”); Tr. 661 (October 22, 2021, treatment note indicating 19 medication “has really been helping with is [sic] anxiety/depression”); Tr. 668 20 (November 24, 2021, treatment note indicating depression and anxiety have

1 “si[g]nificantly improved” with medication); Tr. 641 (October 12, 2021,
2 examination note indicating Plaintiff “has not participated in any mental health
3 counseling”). The ALJ thus reasonably relied on these grounds to treatment to 4 discount Plaintiff’s testimony.

5 Because the ALJ gave at least three valid reasons for discounting Plaintiff’s 6 testimony, the Court need not address the balance of the ALJ’s stated reasons for 7 discounting Plaintiff’s testimony. Any inclusion of erroneous reasons was 8 inconsequential and therefore harmless. See Carmickle v. Comm’r, Soc. Sec.
9 Admin., 533 F.3d 1155, 1162 (9th Cir. 2008).

10 B. Duty to Develop the Record

11 Plaintiff argues the ALJ failed to appropriately develop the record, 12 contending ambiguities relating to the opinion of a consultative examiner (both 13 with respect to the opinion itself and how the opinion was assessed on review and 14 reconsideration) warranted either further clarification from the consultative 15 examiner or “a second” opinion. ECF No. 9 at 18-19.

16 “In Social Security cases, the ALJ has a special duty to develop the record 17 fully and fairly and to ensure that the claimant's interests are considered, even 18 when the claimant is represented by counsel.” Mayes v. Massanari, 276 F.3d 453, 19 459-60 (9th Cir. 2001). The ALJ’s duty to “conduct an appropriate inquiry” is 20 triggered only where evidence is ambiguous or the record is inadequate to allow

1 for proper evaluation of the evidence. Id.; see also Tonapetyan v. Halter, 242 F.3d
2 1144, 1150 (9th Cir. 2001).

3 The Court discerns no ambiguity with respect to the consultative examiner's
4 opinion. Rather, because the consultative examiner did not assess Plaintiff's
5 specific functional limitations, see Tr. 644-45, the ALJ reasonably and permissibly
6 concluded that "her statement is not very helping in determining the claimant's
7 residual mental functional capacity." Tr. 29; cf. Ford v. Saul, 950 F.3d 1141, 1156
8 (9th Cir. 2020) ("Here, the ALJ found that Dr. Zipperman's descriptions of Ford's 9 ability to perform in the workplace as 'limited' or 'fair' were not useful because 10 they failed to specify Ford's functional limits. Therefore, the ALJ could reasonably 11 conclude these characterizations were inadequate for determining RFC."). The 12 ALJ was thus not required to recontact the consultative examiner.

13 The ALJ also did not err by declining to order a second consultative 14 examination. Although the state agency noted, on reconsideration, that "[t]here is 15 [insufficient evidence] to assess current functioning,"³ Tr. 145, and Plaintiff's
16 counsel requested a second consultative examination at the hearing, Tr. 74,

17
18 ³ The state agency also noted Plaintiff "failed to attend an updated [consultative 19 examination]" and "[Plaintiff] nor the [third] party has responded to attempts of 20 contact." Tr. 145.

1 Plaintiff's counsel explicitly contended at the hearing that "the record shows
2 [Plaintiff] has significant impairments in employment, based on the first 3 consultative exam." Tr. 74. This concession undermines the argument that "the 4 record is inadequate to allow for proper evaluation of the evidence." Ford, 950
5 F.3d at 1156 (quoting Mayes, 276 F.3d at 459-60); see 20 C.F.R. § 404.1512(a)
6 (noting the claimant bears the ultimate burden to prove disability). The ALJ thus 7 reasonably relied upon – and rejected – the consultative examiner's opinion, as 8 discussed above.

9 CONCLUSION

10 Having reviewed the record and the ALJ's findings, the Court concludes the 11 ALJ's decision is supported by substantial evidence and free of harmful legal error.
12 Accordingly, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED:

- 13 1. Plaintiff's Brief, ECF No. 9, is DENIED.
- 14 2. Defendant's Brief, ECF No. 13, is GRANTED.
- 15 3. The Clerk's Office shall enter JUDGMENT in favor of Defendant.

16 The District Court Executive is directed to file this Order, provide copies to 17 counsel, and CLOSE THE FILE.
